1. The Uelemiste airfield in Tallinn is used exclusively by military planes. Some of the burned-out barracks of the former railroad car factory have been repaired and serve as repair shops for the Air Force. German PWs are employed in these workshops; they are permitted to move about freely.
2. The former insane asylum at Tallinn is used at present as an army hospital.
3. In the autumn of 1946, construction work was started along Kopli Bay to enable submarines to proceed up to the beach. Till now, only a few submarines have landed in Kopli Bay.
